

STRUCK ON A REEF

Steamer South Portland Loaded With Wheat Wrecked During a Heavy Fog.

TWENTY-ONE PERSONS MISSING.

One of the Boats With a Part of the Crew Capsized Soon After Leaving the Ship.

The Captain's Boat With About 18 Aboard Succeeded in Clearing, But Was Also Capsized and Only Seven Were Saved.

Marshfield, Ore., Oct. 21.—The steamer South Portland, which sailed from Portland, Ore., last Sunday loaded with wheat for San Francisco, struck on Blanco Reef Monday evening at 5 o'clock during a heavy fog.

The vessel carried a crew of 22 and 17 passengers. Of these 13 of the crew and four passengers succeeded in reaching shore. Charles Huzon, the first engineer, died as they were taking him off the life raft, of exposure. Twenty-one persons are yet missing and are probably lost.

The South Portland struck bottom going at a speed of about seven knots. As soon as striking she began to settle astern, and in a minute or two slid off the reef and began to sink. Capt. McIntyre, seeing that there was no hope of saving the ship, speedily had the boats lowered. One of the boats got away from the ship's side loaded with part of the crew and some of the passengers was capsized as soon as it cleared the ship's side and when last seen was floating away in the fog without a living soul aboard.

The captain's boat with about 18 aboard succeeded in clearing, but was also capsized and only seven were able to get back to the boat. They consisted of Capt. James McIntyre, John Reimer, Emanuel Pazomins, W. L. Wilson, L. Baker, Guy Bent and Al Bailey. They reached Port Orford Monday night. A life boat on which the following embarked succeeded in reaching shore Tuesday afternoon:

Charles Bruce, first officer; James Ward, chief engineer; T. Pizotti, second assistant engineer; John McKown, oiler; J. Driscoll, oiler; W. Hughes, fireman; W. Robertson, fireman; Jas. Atwood, seaman; H. Weber, J. H. Johnson, seaman, and Charles Huzon, the first assistant engineer.

The survivors suffered much from exposure and Capt. McIntyre is confined to his bed.

HARNESS HORSE CONTEST.

Lou Dillon Beat Major Delmar in Two Straight Heats.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21.—What was expected to be one of the greatest harness horse contests in local history proved to be a very tame affair Tuesday when Lou Dillon gave Major Delmar a decisive beating in two straight heats in ordinary time. The two minute trotters met in the second renewal of the Memphis Gold cup. Fully 15,000 people were in attendance when the two champions, driven by their owners, appeared upon the track for the first heat. Mr. Billings won the pole on the toss of a coin. Starter Newton gave the word "go" at the first attempt and Lou Dillon immediately forged to the front and seemingly without effort opened up a gap of three lengths, which advantage she held to the end, winning in an easy jog.

In the second heat Major Delmar broke badly at the first eighth pole, allowing the daughter of Sidney Dillon to assume a lead of 20 lengths. Turning into the stretch Mr. Billings, realizing that he had the race at his mercy, pulled the mare up and won by eight lengths. Both heats were trotted in 2:04. It was the general opinion that had the mare been pushed in Tuesday's race she could have equalled her great performance at Readville when she made the circuit in two minutes.

CANADIANS SORE.

General Opinion is That They Will Have to Make the Best of Decision.

A LESSON IN SELF RELIANCE.

Canada is Compelled to Succumb to What is Politely Called "English Diplomacy."

There is Talk of Building An All Canadian Railway to the Yukon From the Pacific—The Press is Huffed.

Ottawa, Oct. 21.—The general opinion is that Canada will have to make the best of it in the Alaska decision. It is declared that it is another lesson in self reliance and consequently people are already asking how long it will take to build a railway to the Yukon and how much it will cost.

Many speak strongly on the subject and recite instances where Canada has had to succumb to what is politely called "English diplomacy." While the action of the Canadian commissioners in refusing to sign the award will be endorsed, it is considered a troublesome question is well rid of.

When the railway subsidies were under discussion Tuesday night Col. Hughes suggested that an all Canadian road be built to the Yukon from the Pacific. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the premier, replied that Canada would have to do this now that the award had gone against her in the Alaska boundary controversy.

Mr. Courley, in a rather low tone, said that Canada would have to try to get back the territory that is lost. There was a cry of "order" and that ended the discussion.

Toronto, Oct. 21.—Discussing the Alaskan boundary decision the Telegram (Independent) says:

"The Alaskan boundary controversy has ended just as all controversy in which British diplomacy plays a part must end, in victory for a country that is unscrupulous enough to claim everything and cunning enough to trade on the English good will that would sacrifice anything rather than keep open a cause of difference with the United States."

The Witness (liberal) says editorially:

"Ever since the Alaska boundary difference came to the fore, our conviction has been that Canada would substantially lose her case. When the United States consented to submission of the question to a joint high commission it was with the certainty that she could not lose an assurance universally expressed that she would gain. It was as certain as any human question could be that no commissioners appointed by the United States would go back to their country having voted to sacrifice Skagway and Dyea. To make assurance doubly sure the president sacrificed his dignity by selecting commissioners who had already publicly and determinedly committed themselves."

Montreal, Oct. 21.—La Patrie, the organ of J. I. Tarte, ex-minister of public works, says editorially about the Alaskan decision:

"Canada should never have agreed to settle the question except by arbitration where one country appoints representatives and the other country represents, and these an umpire. The manner in which the latter was settled was proposed to Canada in 1899 and then Laurier refused it. Six months ago he accepted the same proposition. Why was that?"

STERN HEARING.

The Baltimore Contractor Was Arrested in Toronto and Extra-dicted Under Two Warrants.

ACCUSED PLEADED NOT GUILTY.

He is Charged With False Pretense in Supplying Government Satchels For Rural Carriers.

There Was 1,557 Satchels Supplied By Defendant, But They Did Not Have the Straps as Stipulated in the Contract.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Leopold J. Stern, the Baltimore contractor arrested in Toronto under two warrants charging false pretense in the supply to the government of satchels for rural free delivery carriers, was given a preliminary hearing in the supreme court Tuesday. Stern pleaded not guilty.

Post Office Inspector Walter S. Mayer, who worked up the case against Stern, was called to the witness stand, but before his examination was concluded court adjourned for the day.

Much of the day was consumed in arguments by attorneys. Assistant District Attorney Taggart reviewed the charges against Stern, who, he said, submitted a bill and received money for satchel straps which he never furnished.

"The bill on its face," said Mr. Taggart, "was a lie. There were 1,557 satchels supplied, but they did not have the straps as stipulated in the contract."

The defense contended that if the department ordered that the "Lamb straps," with which Stern was supplied and which he used in place of his own, be used, as they interpreted the government's petition, Stern was certainly entitled to the money as such order constituted a modification of the contract.

Post Office Inspector Mayer identified Stern's original contract with the government, which was submitted in evidence, despite the objections of the defense.

The defense contended that the United States did agree that Stern furnish the satchels without the straps, the government supplying him with certain straps known as the Lamb straps which only one concern could furnish. Mr. Taggart called attention to the omission in Stern's bill of anything to indicate that he had not supplied the straps as stipulated. He explained later to the inspectors, said Mr. Taggart, that the government relieved him of the expense of the straps owing to the higher prices of leather on account of the Spanish war.

In his testimony Inspector Mayer said he had a conversation with the defendant at his place of business in Baltimore in which the latter acknowledged having but one contract with the government for the furnishing of satchels and that his contract called for a certain kind of strap to be placed on the satchels.

On cross-examination the defense brought out the admission that Stern had claimed that he had secured the permission of two postal officials to furnish the satchels without straps.

The Democrats of Mason County must do their whole duty in the present campaign. See that every vote possible is polled for the full ticket Nov. 3 d.

Are the Republicans using Caleb Powers' speech as a campaign document? It looks that way when the leaders in this county openly hawk the document about their public meetings. They must be hard up for campaign material.

The Edwards faction was in control of the convention at all times up to the vote on adjournment, which the Hunter men disregarded. The adjournment was taken because Benny Howard, brother of Jim Howard, sentenced to life imprisonment for complicity in the Goebel murder, came into the convention at 11 o'clock, accompanied by other mountain men, and declared that Hunter's nomination must be made as it would mean the liberation of Caleb Powers, Jim Howard and the other men now in jail for complicity in the Goebel murder.

The above is taken from an account of the Republican Congressional convention at Middleborough last Saturday. It shows not only to what desperate tactics the notorious Dr. Hunter resorted to win the nomination, but it is an intimation of what the people of Kentucky may expect if the Republicans are placed in power at Frankfort.

THE SAD PLIGHT OF MR. MORGAN.
 In view of the recent collapse of the stock market, and the downfall of the erstwhile "King of Finance," this from that Republican journal, the Cincinnati Times-Star, is one of "the most unkind-cut" of all made:

Truly, the affairs of that recently heralded "Napoleon of Finance," J. Pierpont Morgan, have arrived at a most pitiable condition. Eighteen months ago this enterprising gentleman cut such a figure in the financial world that not much beside himself was therein visible to the eyes of the average man. Apparently he absolutely dominated Wall Street, and even staid old London remained awake of nights in its efforts to keep clear of what one English wit styled the "Morganatic" grasp.

One short year and what a change in the fortunes of the expansive Mr. Morgan! The International Mercantile Marine company fizzle, followed by the ruinous declines in the prices of United States Steel and other of the Morgan specialties, have not only impoverished many of Mr. Morgan's friends and followers, but have dwindled the prestige of the great financier to such proportions that those spectators who beheld it in all its glory two years ago would not be able even by the wildest stretch of the imagination to recognize it to-day. As a man prominent in that select and profitable clique, the Standard Old crowd, said with ill-concealed delight the other day, "Two years ago Morgan could sell a piece of paper for a hundred million dollars; to-day he couldn't sell a Government bond at 50 per cent discount."

J. Pierpont Morgan is unquestionably a strong man. Also, he has been and is broadly charitable to a greater extent, possibly, than any other of Wall Street's well-known multi-millionaires. Doubtless also, his intentions were good. Apparently he was carried away by the success of his first experiences in flouting huge industrial corporations, however, and went too far along the path of financial expansion. To which excess of zeal, probably, more than to any other one cause, Wall Street owes its present frenzy of terror, involving the loss of fortunes by many speculators and the shrinkage of the Morgan prestige to its present pitiable—if not invisible—dimensions.

Hanley which was conducted at the Catholic Church Sunday at 12:30 by Rev. Father Gilbert, who in sympathetic tones preached a touching sermon, after which the remains were laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Washington.

The mission which closed at the Catholic Church Sunday night was a success in every detail. For one week a series of brilliant and instructive lectures were delivered by Rev. Fathers Gilbert and Isadore. With burning eloquence and touching pathos they described scenes and related facts which alone should turn the slumber and strengthen the faithful. On Thursday evening they took for their subject, "The Vice of Intemperance," portraying its horrors, sin and punishment both here on earth and in the life beyond the grave. In ringing tones Father Isadore told of heart-rending scenes witnessed by the bedside of the dying lubricate and in the midst of sorrowful and desolated homes made so by the fatal drink habit. He described man as God made him in the fullness of his glorious manhood, and in vivid contrast the loathsome, disgusting, despicable wretch which Satan claims. At the close of this eloquent sermon the call was made for the renouncing of all intoxicating drinks and the scene was made memorable by several young men bravely asserting their manhood and in the presence of that large assembly repeating the solemn oath of renunciation of intoxicants and their firm allegiance to their Maker. It is to be hoped that this good work will not end here but that others may follow these noble examples and bravely go and do likewise. At each service the edifice was filled with interested listeners who found food for reflection in each and every sermon. The missionary Fathers made many friends during their stay who thank them for their kindness and interest displayed for each member of this laith. The choir rendered valuable service under the management of the talented young organist, Miss Margaret Lally.

Stoop-Shoulder Months!

One doesn't have to worry much about children getting round-shouldered as long as they are out doors all the while. It is when they are inside, exercising less and bending over desks that the injury is done. For this reason this is an especially timely season to put shoulder braces on the child that shows signs of stooping. It is folly to wait until the habit is fixed. We have the kind you should use, the ones universally conceded to be the best.

WON TAX SUIT.

Important Decision Rendered by Federal Judge Cochran

In the Suit of the L. and N., involving the System of Assessing Property in Kentucky.

COVINGTON, Ky., October 19—Judge A. M. J. Cochran of the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern district of Kentucky, handed down a decision today in the case of the Louisville and Nashville railroad against the State of Kentucky, involving taxes to the amount of $30,000, from which the railroad company claimed to be exempted.

The decision in which the claims of the Louisville and Nashville are upheld is very important, and if the ruling of Judge Cochran be affirmed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals it will create a stir in Kentucky. Judge Cochran, in speaking of the case last evening, expressed the opinion that it was hardly possible for the State to overlook the existing tax evils, after such a decision of the Federal Court, and that some action will probably be taken in a short time to remedy the evil.

There are two steps possible. One is the indictment of all the Tax Assessors in the State who have been for the past ten years assessing property at about 20 per cent. less than its actual cash value. The other remedy and the one which will more probably be employed is to amend the State Constitution so that the present method of assessment will be according to law.

In 1902 the Louisville and Nashville railroad filed a petition in the Federal Court of the Eastern district of Kentucky asking that the tax assessment on its property in Kentucky be reduced 20 per cent., and as a reason for this request the railroad company made the statement that the individual property owner of the State was only assessed on 80 per cent. of the full valuation of his property. The railroad made no claim that its assessment was excessive, but claimed that the corporation was discriminated against in favor of the individual property owners. Suit was brought under the Fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which declares that all citizens shall have the equal protection of the law.

The entire holdings of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in eleven States amount to about $130,000,000. Twenty-six per cent. of this, or about $33,000,000 is in the State of Kentucky. Of this amount $23,000,000 is assessed by the Railroad Commission as tangible property and the other $10,000,000 is franchise property. The railroad company asked that about $6,500,000 be cut off from this assessment and that its property be assessed at only 80 per cent. of its full valuation.

In deciding in favor of the railroad company Judge Cochran said it was very evident that the Assessors in the various counties had erred in making the individual assessments lower than they should have been made; that as these assessments could not be raised and the other 20 per cent. collected from the individual taxpayer, the only thing to do under the Constitution of the United States was to grant the reduction in the railroad assessment.

It is probable that the case will be carried by the State to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Mr. Samuel Daugherty, son of Manager Hiram Daugherty of the Central Hotel, has been appointed to a cadetship at Annapolis, by Congressman Kehoe. Sam is a graduate of the Maysville High School of the class of 1902, and is one of the city's most worthy young men, with a laudable ambition to climb the ladder of fame, and here hoping he will get to the top.

The following composed a merry nutting party who left early this morning to spend the day at Ruggles Camp Ground: Mrs. Marion Hill of Dayton, Ky., Mrs. Dr. Heiln, of Newport, Mrs. Joseph H. Dodson, Mrs. P. A. Williams, Mrs. Harry Richardson, the Misses Bierbower, Miss Hutchins, Miss Bertha Ort, the Misses Walsh, Miss Marie Rains and Messrs. I. M. Lane, J. H. Richardson and John T. Parker.

Rev. Mr. Brown, a well-known Presbyterian preacher living with his daughter, Mrs. Telford, wife of the principal of the young ladies' school at Lewisburg, W. Va., who had long been a recluse from sickness and age, scarcely ever coming out of his room, was brought to his right mind and health, it is stated, by the excitement and shock consequent on the fire that destroyed the school buildings recently, and is now completely restored, and has charge of a church near Lewisburg. He is well-known here.
